Now, by request, here's a period piece that strikes a cord for all us Boomers! Made in 1979, but wonderfully evoking the mood of the late Sixties, this offbeat drama has a few memorable tunes (Hair and The Dawning of Aquarius) and a surprisingly effective anti-war message. Pg 13 Some coarse language and some, but disappointingly less than you might expect, nudity.

This new release won Best Screenplay for Cameron Crowe at this year's Oscars. That was great because it was his own experience portrayed in the film. He's since become a well known writer in Hollywood but this was his first assignment - following a rock band on tour for Rolling Stone Magazine. He was just 16 and green as grass, surrounded by the substances being abused, hedonistic rock stars-on-the-rise, determined groupies and Great Music. R coarse language

The Valley
Of The Boys

This little documentary tells the tale of the engineers and programmers who populate Silicon Valley in Northern California and who are shaping the future of the technology industry. The director, a former programmer - turns her camera on this ultimate boy's club where the demented and somewhat infantile games and hobbies of these techno-geeks is a marvel to behold. Pg

A really well made, provocative, and inspirational film about two guys in Nova Scotia who have had life changing injuries, one pretty much recovered helping the other to maximize his recovery. G

THE DRESSER

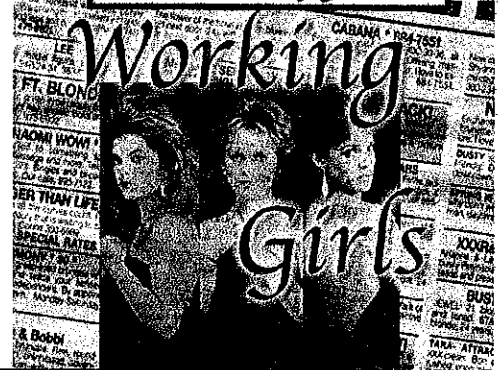

Marvelous 1983 adaptation of Ronald Harwood's play, adapted by him as well. It's about an aging actor/manager, Albert Finney, his dresser, Tom Courtenay, and the colourfully seamy theatre company touring England during WWII. Marvelous showbiz tale is lovingly told, superbly acted. A classic! Pg

Unusual characters and plot turns make this horticultural tale a winner. Starring the brilliant Brenda Bleyn (Secrets and Lies) and a cast of curious villagers conspiring to grow our protagonist out of debt with a high value cash crop. Pg Warning: some use of the "F" word and, guys, some use of the "L" word. The opinion on Pot expressed is not necessarily that of MM

This movie from 1987 portrays a day in the life in a New York City brothel - a look at workers motivations, practical and business aspects, its humour and risks and emotional toll. R warning: this film is unblinking in its portrayal of the subject material and therefore includes suggested sex, nudity, language, violence. We'll be discussing the realities of Victoria's sex trade with a panel including women who've been there and are currently working to support people who are in and getting out of the business.
