

SATURDAY LIVE!

a special project of Movie Monday

the first in a series of Fringe-style solo shows exploring mental illness and recovery

The Eric Martin Pavilion's Theatre was originally built in part for "psycho-drama".

It'll be sweet to get back to this use with personal explorations by folks who've been there.

Discussions with the performer/creator will follow the performances.

SATURDAY

January 21 2006 7:30 at the Movie Monday Theatre in the Eric Martin Pavilion by donation

SCRUPULOSITY: A play about keeping your faith without losing your mind.

What happens when well-meaning Christian moral teaching, served up with a little helping of Hellfire and Damnation, is taken to heart by an impressionable lad prone to obsessive/compulsive tendencies?

Andrew Bailey explores this autobiographical theme in his performance that won BEST SOLO PLAY at Victoria's 2005 Fringe.
