Filmmaker Lisa Jackson will be with us to discuss parallels between the Australian and Canadian treatment of Aboriginal people presented in these two films.

MM revisits Phillip Noyce's epic based on true events, "Rabbit-Proof Fence" is a moving story of racial prejudice, agoraphobic desert vistas, and amazing endurance as three girls walk 1,500 miles to find their mothers in 1930s Australia. 94min PG
Plus: SUCKERFISH - When she was ten, Lisa Jackson fled Toronto to live with relatives in Vancouver to escape her mother's depression, alcoholism and prescription drug abuse - legacies of the residential school experience. Now, sifting through her memories and her mother's letters, she constructs a portrait of a mother whose drive to love her daughter triumphed over her demons of addiction. Animation, childhood photographs and stylized recreations add the young child's whimsical voice to this moving, at times humorous, look at the director's relationship to her mother and native identity. Here's a small budget movie with a big heart - one of those gems that everyone loves. Great characters, unusual situations but ones that we can all identify with. No CGI, no evil villains, not even any bad guys - just human nature in all its glory.

SOMETHING NEW

SOMETHING NEW 60min & WHO KILLED THE ELECTRIC CAR? 92min

A 1920 silent Western starring (and directed and produced by) Victoria's own Nell Shipman and a new doc about a possible solution to our automobile addiction that was squashed like a bug. Pg

"Something New" (1920, 60 min.) is a thrilling and hilarious Western where the hero comes to the rescue of the kidnapped girl--in a 1920 Maxwell sedan! Chased by bandits on horseback across rocky terrain, Shipman and co-star Bert Van Tuyle survive some of the most amazing stunts ever attempted in a roadster"

Set in Vancouver's notorious Downtown Eastside, Art (Jay Baruchel), is a young hustler and general lay-about, who is head over heels in love with the luminous Cody (Sarah Lind). When she falls into a coma from an apparent overdose, it is up to Art to seek out the one person who offers him any kind of hope: his homeless friend Harvey - and the time machine he found in a dumpster. A novel comedic/dramatic take on the problems of young people being drawn into life of Vancouver's dark side - magical realism, Jim Burns, great, provocative Canadian film.

good night,

they took on the government with nothing but the truth

"an electrifying movie event.
one of the year's best."

George Clooney wrote and directed this simple but riveting telling of broadcaster Edward R Murrow courageous stand against McCarthy's grandstanding Communist witchhunt of the 1950's. Here's a timely reflection on the misuse of government's authority and the courage it takes to challenge it. A thoughtful and engrossing film that makes history live - and makes you realize the wonderful cinematic possibilities of cigarette smoke gorgeously shot in black and white 93min G
