William Kurelek's THE MAZE

This brilliant new film is about a Canadian artist, William Kurelek (1927-1977), whose work is currently enjoying a major retrospective at the Art Gallery Of Greater Victoria. The Maze (1953) is a particular painting, by the tormented artist in his mid-twenties, that inspired this film. It got better!

Kurelek's life story is dramatically told through his many paintings and his on-camera revelations - a film actually brought to life after being lost for 40 years. Immerse yourself in this ultimately inspiring life story, the art, and this film that is a work of art in its own right. 60min 2012 Pg13

As autism has exploded into the public consciousness over the last 20 years, two opposing questions have been asked about the condition: is it a devastating sickness to be cured? Or is it a variation of the human brain -- just a different way to be human? "Loving Lampposts" goes inside the autism wars and shows us the parents, doctors, therapists, and autistic people who are redefining this disorder at a moment when it's better known than ever before. Told through the stories of autistic children and adults, the film examines the politics surrounding autism and the neurodiversity movement. Ultimately, it shows that it's possible to lead a happy, successful life and be autistic. 83min 2011 Pg

Fathers & Sons is an indie feature length comedy-drama that employs

aspects of the conventional drama in its creation, but utilizes entirely improvised dialogue in its execution. Following the lives of four very different families as they confront a pivotal moment in their relationships, the film celebrates those unchosen bonds that shape our lives, the blessings and burdens. This, second in our Carl Bessai trilogy, is a treat - and demonstrates again that good films can be made on a tiny budget! 87min 2010 R particularly for language

THE MISFITS

"The Misfits brought together three legendary performers: Clark Gable, Montgomery Clift, and Marilyn Monroe, in a story of lonely, modern-day cowboys and the woman who loves them. Arthur Miller's screenplay, Russell Metty's somber black-and-white images, and final performances by Monroe and Gable give this film a profoundly elegiac tone." 1961 124min PG13 Here's a chance to celebrate the real Marilyn soon after the recent screening of My Week With Marilyn with Michelle Williams. Marilyn Monroe died 50 years ago, Aug 5, 1962. Gable died weeks after the film wrapped.
