Movie Monday's 26th Anniversary too!

CHOMAVISION a bipolar journey

Chomavision is a feature documentary about an amazing Canadian artist, Bob Choma. His life has been a classic creative, chaotic story: an accomplished artist as a child, he became graphic artist and businessman, a cartoonist, futurist, story teller - general sparky guy.

A graduate of Victoria's psychiatric hospital, Bob was challenged by classic Bipolar mood swings, prison time for counterfeiting, suicide attempts, and alcohol problems throughout a colourful life, but in his later years he was well and rediscovered his creative muse as an outsider artist.

It has taken only 25 years to complete this project. Beyond revealing one man's life journey, this film provides insights into the connection between the Bipolar condition and creativity - and how vital that connection is for some of us. 82min 2018 Pg

With display in our gallery of some of Bob's paintings and Q&A with the filmmaker - Bruce Saunders
